

Dr. Melissa Kottke is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Gynecology and Obstetrics at Emory University in Atlanta, Georgia. She completed a Fellowship in Family Planning and Contraception and is currently the Medical Director of the Teen Services Clinic at Grady Memorial Hospital. This clinic receives Title X funding to support its clinical care, and also has an outreach educational component involving both adult and youth health educators. She is the Director of the Jane Fonda Center at Emory, which is involved in research and program development focused on Adolescent Sexual and Reproductive Health. Current areas of research include sexuality education, Dual Protection, dating violence prevention, contraception for teens and immediate postpartum IUD and Implant insertion. She also serves as the Medical Consultant for the State of Georgia's Family Planning Program.