

New Application Requirement for the 2022 Cycle

Morehouse School of Medicine seeks broadly qualified medical students who exhibit capacity for improvement, ethical responsibility to self and others, resilience and adaptability among other pre-professional competencies and are “primarily caring” with a passion for service to underserved communities wherever they exist.

To further enhance our holistic review process during the 2022 application cycle and to ensure we recruit applicants who embody our core values of knowledge, wisdom, excellence, service, innovation, and integrity, we are requiring applicants to complete an online situational judgment test (SJT), administered by the Association of American Medical Colleges (AAMC), to assess the pre-professional competencies that our admissions committee believes are essential for success at our medical school.

The AAMC SJT exam is an opportunity for applicants to showcase personal and professional characteristics--beyond academic scores—that will make them a great fit the Morehouse School of Medicine. We will consider SJT scores as one part of our admissions process.

The AAMC SJT exam will be available June – September 2021.

For the AMCAS 2022 application cycle, the AAMC SJT exam will be free and administered online using remote proctoring.

Free preparation materials are available through the AAMC, and a full-length practice test will be available in spring 2021.

We encourage you to review all our application requirements.

Information about the AAMC SJT exam, including preparation materials, test registration, requests for accommodations, and important dates and deadlines is available here on the AAMC website.
