

LaShawn M. Hoffman is one of Atlanta's most distinguished civic leaders and neighborhood developers. He joined the Morehouse School of Medicine Prevention Research Center Community Coalition Board in 2006 and served as Chairperson since 2010. As Chairperson for the Morehouse School of Medicine Prevention Research Center Community Coalition Board, Mr. Hoffman leads a diverse group of community advocates, academic partners, and agencies in strategies that reduce health disparities and promote community-campus partnerships using the community-based participatory research model. Mr. Hoffman is the former Chief Executive Officer of the Pittsburgh Community Improvement Association, Inc. (PCIA) a neighborhood-based not for profit Community Development Corporation. Under Mr. Hoffman's leadership, he has facilitated community-based planning necessary to achieve sound conservation and growth strategies. Mr. Hoffman has been fiscally responsible for more than $3.5 million in affordable housing creation in the Pittsburgh Community. Mr. Hoffman is committed to rebuilding Atlanta's historic neighborhoods as safe, healthy, economically viable communities that provides housing and support services for families with limited incomes, while welcoming people from all backgrounds.